AMENDOLA COMMUNICATIONS DRAWS INDUSTRY RECOGNITION

Ranked as One of "The Best-of-the-Best" Small IT Public Relations Agencies in U.S.

SCOTTDALE, Ariz. – July 24, 2007 – Amendola Communications, a full-service national public relations (PR) and marketing firm specializing in healthcare, healthcare technology, high tech, financial services and real estate, was recognized today in PRSourceCode's second annual "Top Tech Communicator" study as one of the top five information technology (IT) industry's "Best-of-the-Best" small PR agencies nationwide. Additionally, Jodi Amendola, the agency's CEO, received honorable mention by numerous editors.

PRSourceCode, a content service provider serving the IT journalism, conference, industry accolade, and PR communities, surveyed more than 300 IT journalists for this year's "Top Tech Communicator" study, honoring the top five large, mid-sized, and small PR agencies, as well as the top 15 corporate PR departments. The IT editorial community ranked each winner based upon best overall performance.

"Over the years, Amendola Communications has formed and nurtured a broad range of media relationships," states Jodi Amendola, a seasoned PR professional and CEO of Amendola Communications. "Industry knowledge and experience help us to anticipate reporters' and editors' needs and to deliver what they require. We promote targeted, timely story ideas to generate quality coverage for our clients. This sets us apart from our competition. We are honored to receive the distinction as one of the top five small IT PR agencies in PRSourceCode's 'Top Tech Communicator' study and thank the multiple editors, reporters and freelancers for their votes of confidence."

The ranking identifies PR agencies that add the most value to the editorial processes in terms of responsiveness, reliability, and overall recognition of editorial needs.

PRSourceCode's online survey targeted respondents from the IT editorial community including horizontal and vertical IT books, as well as IT reporters at consumer-oriented news outlets.

“PRSourceCode’s annual ‘Top Tech Communicators’ study is a platform for IT journalists to sound off on what the PR industry is doing right,” said Steven J. Smith, general manager, PRSourceCode. “According to the IT editorial community, Amendola Communications is a shining example of good PR.”
